Ocean Eyes was the first single by the young female Songwriter Billy Eilish. She has since written and produced several major songs and is a leading figure in contemporary pop music.

The tutorial for today is a video playalong to the melody part. The part that you will be playing is the main vocal melody (the part that she sings) and this is played in the right hand. At the same time you will be asked to play something similar in your left hand. You'll notice some of the notes move in a mirror-like fashion to the ones that you play in your right hand. This technique is called contrary motion and has been used since the days of JS Bach!

So, to try and get this right, try and learn the right hand first, then learn the left. Once you are feeling confident try and piece it all together. It might take a little bit of practise to get it right, but I'm sure with a little bit of effort you will learn this.
